Helpful Tips

Travel— International Traveller Magazine advised you should not use airport USB sockets to charge your phone. Cyber criminals use charging ports to access your device while charging. Once its connected its possible to steal personal data, install malicious software and even control your device remotely.

Turn Off automatic connections and sharing

Disabling your device will prevent it from connecting to a potentially malicious network without your knowledge. Turning off file sharing features like AirDrop on apple devices prevents unsolicited access to your files.

Bluetooth Headphones — unpatched leads to hacking

Researchers found critical flaws with Bluetooth headphones and earbuds powered by Airoha system-on-chips. These are used widely in consumer electronics.

Critical flaws may enable

- eavesdropping via the device's microphone
- Data theft
- Smartphone compromise

How to reduce the Bluetooth Security Risk

- Update Bluetooth and earbuds using official manufacturer apps when firmware updates are available
- Keep smartphones fully updated with the latest operating system
- Remove unused, unknown or unnecessary paired devices from smartphones
- Disable Bluetooth when not actively in use and avoid pairing devices in public.
- Periodically reset and re-pair Bluetooth headphones after firmware updates
- For high risk individuals or sensitive use cases, use wired headphones.

Windows phone-based activation method retired

Microsoft announced from December 3 2025 it has retired its offline phone based activation method for Windows and Office after 20 years.

To activate Windows 11 or Office the easiest way is to link your license to a Microsoft account which will verify the product.

For perpetual licenses, advanced customers can use the Product Activation Portal that requires use of the internet. After logging in and entering the details you can activate Windows offline.

Microsoft PC Manager

<https://shorturl.at/pam0P>

If you've been computing for a few years you may have seen ads and even downloaded a program or two that claims to clean and speed up your PC.

PC Manager is a Microsoft App with the following features;

- PC Boost—Cleaning & optimizing performance
- Health Check—scans computer for issues and malware
- Manage storage—cleans up unnecessary files.
- Pop-Up management—reduce distracting app notifications
- Toolbar-App displays a mini toolbar showing your system's status.
- Note: The App does not do anything with the Registry.

Michael Muchmore in an article in PCMag tested PC Manager. Its available in the Microsoft Store and his testing found the app;

- simplifies the process of cleaning and maintaining the PC
- Reduces the storage footprint by allowing a scan to clean up delete duplicate files and large files and manage downloads.
- Slightly improves performance boost.
